Acceptable Use Policy

Last updated: 9 June 2026

This Acceptable Use Policy sets out the rules for using TradeBooster. It forms part of our Terms of Service. By using the Service you agree to follow it. If you break it, we may suspend or close your account.

1. Use the Service honestly

You may use the Service only for your own genuine business and in line with the law. You must give us accurate information and keep it up to date. You must not impersonate another business or set up accounts for businesses you do not represent.

2. Things you must not do

You must not:

- break any law or regulation, or infringe anyone else's rights, including intellectual property and data protection rights;
 - use the Service to send spam or unsolicited marketing, including cold emails harvested from public records;
 - create, post or route fake, incentivised, duplicated or misleading reviews, or post the same review across multiple platforms, which breaches platform rules and UK consumer protection law;
 - publish content through the Service that is false, misleading, offensive, or that breaches UK advertising or consumer law;
 - scrape, copy, or extract data from the Service beyond your normal use, or use bots to access it;
 - reverse engineer, decompile, or try to extract our source code, audit logic or models;
 - attempt to access accounts, data or systems that are not yours;
 - introduce malware, attack the Service, or try to get around our security, rate limits or usage limits;
 - resell, sublicense or provide the Service to third parties as if it were your own, unless we have agreed in writing; or
 - deliberately abuse the billing model, for example by signing up, extracting a large amount of work, and cancelling, in a way intended to take value the plan was not designed to give in a single period.

3. Connected accounts and third party platforms

When you connect a third party account such as Google Business Profile or a social media account, you must comply with that platform's terms. You must not use the Service to do anything that would breach those terms or put your platform accounts at risk.

4. Fair use

The Service relies on third party data sources with usage costs and limits. We may apply fair and reasonable usage limits to protect the Service for everyone. If your use is excessive or harms the Service or other users, we may contact you, apply limits, or suspend your account.

5. Reporting misuse

If you become aware of anyone misusing the Service, please tell us at support@tradebooster.co.uk.

6. Enforcement

If you break this policy, we may, depending on how serious it is, warn you, limit or suspend features, remove content, or close your account. For serious or repeated breaches we may close your account without a refund. We will act fairly and proportionately.
